

When Bible Obedience & Dark Worldly Agenda MERGE

Is the following scenario POSSIBLE?

Many globalists are tactical by nature. IF they are active in their commitment, they often assess things and then try to use current events and trends to further accomplish their agenda.

Could it be that one day in this current decade – yes, we’re this close to the very end of days ! – these who seek to control will use (once the momentum increases due to unfolding worldwide cultural realities) Bible-believing Christianity’s commitment against taking the mark in this way: [please be patient and allow me to further explain by reading on ...]

They will say (& act accordingly) among themselves, something to this effect: “Let’s foster this appeal of the fundamentalists – i.e., Let’s actually promote their appeal: ‘Don’t ever take the mark.’ This way we can use it to take even more riches from the Bible-believing Christian communities around the globe.” [ Again, please keep reading and allow me to further clarify as we don’t want to be misunderstood. ]

Is it possible that some who promote the upcoming governance of the antichrist will one day soon actually support the resistance against taking the mark so that more (in the very near future) will adopt, both perspectively and in action, a negative response to the new financial system? These globalists who will capitalize on the cultural moment will proceed accordingly so that one day they can make trillions through eventually plundering those who commit to civil disobedience (civil disobedience expressed, in part, in the act of refusing to take the mark for commerce and spiritual purposes). The plundering of the Jews during the Holocaust is child’s play when compared to the upcoming end of days plundering.

While these money-seeking deceivers will initially promote the rejection of the mark so that a greater number will move in that same direction, they will eventually use the anti-mark movement to plunder this very group – those who refuse to take the mark. In seeking to be as clear as possible: These wolves in sheep’s clothing will, at first, appear to be on the Christians’ side but only so that more folks will join the resistance against the mark. The more refusing the mark, the more they will be able to plunder ... the more worldly riches they will take unto themselves. WOW! Daniel 7, 8 & 11 has some fascinating things to say about this plundering and the period of time the Bible calls the war against the Saints !

If the above scenario were to actually take place, please discern this, dear Family in Christ: Just because these tacticians and the Bible believers will appear to share common ground concerning the mark, we, as God’s people in Christ, are NOT being manipulated to be a tool of this dark system when we reject the mark. We are not joining these who plunder – that is, those who will also make the same ‘don’t take the mark’ appeals. We are obeying what God has actually directed His people in Christ to do: Say “NO” to taking the mark. We’re called to follow God’s mandate: “Don’t take the mark” even when some (who do not know our Lord) are saying the same or similar things. While darkness will employ this perspective and act accordingly – they will take the Christians’ many assets through the implementation of the global mark – we are not supporting their duplicity but, in fact, obeying God. There’s a huge difference between the two, though, initially, both will appear to be promoting the same appeal of rejecting the mark.
